Monte Rosa has been one of the first private schools established in Switzerland and has achieved its reputation through the constant development of sound teaching methods designed to meet changing educational requirements.

The school is housed in a stately nineteenth-century mansion in Territet-Montreux on the shores of Lake Geneva and has a panoramic view across the lake to the snow-capped Savoy Alps in France. The climate is temperate and the pleasant environment conducive to healthy living and studying.

The institute applies well-proven educational methods that allow students of various nationalities to become acquainted with each other and with community life. Their education is based on good manners, respect for their neighbours and a sense of honour and discipline. In this atmosphere and with a permanent dialogue at all community levels, each individual is able to develop his own personality and learns to shoulder his share of responsibilities.

A keen, carefully chosen graduate staff teaches small, flexible classes in which each student receives individual attention. This enables the students to overcome eventual academic problems far more quickly than in larger, more traditional classes. Remarkable results have been obtained with this method.

Students are prepared for the High School Diploma and University entrance examinations and are offered a thorough study of modern languages leading to a variety of different certificates. The important Department of Business Studies offers a full Trans-Academic program in English.

Sports and physical education are combined as they form an essential basis for the development of body and character. Our sports teachers consider sports training as a school of endurance and individual aptitude demanding self-control and courtesy to fellow players. A whole range of summer and winter sports is offered in natural and healthy surroundings, and there is a gymnasium.

A special feature offered by the school is its summer and winter Swiss Holiday, « a democratic life-style experience » where students learn to live with girls and boys from other nations through participation in sport, outdoor activities and language lessons. Such a variety of programmes allows students to obtain self-confidence and to understand and appreciate each other.

With over a century of experience behind it, Institut Monte Rosa offers its students highly stimulating studies in pleasant family surroundings and an atmosphere of companionship.
